

CANADA'S AGRICULTURE DAY | Quick tips to get you started

Get involved on Feb. 12

Canada's Agriculture Day is the perfect time to come together as an industry. Let's showcase our ag pride and create a closer connection with consumers about where food comes from, and the people who produce it.

What a celebration!

Canada's Agriculture Day is amazing:

- one of the top trends in Canada on Twitter
- hundreds of events and thousands of people participating across the country
- renowned speakers and hundreds of advocates at our national event in Ottawa

Don't miss out in 2019

More events, more conversations, more connections. How will you celebrate this year? It's up to you – go as big as you'd like!

Here's how you can celebrate:

- Individual activities: Encourage friends or colleagues to celebrate the day in their own way. Invite them to check out AgDay.ca for personal ag challenges and inspiration.
- Community outreach: Host an open house, farm crawl or Canadian food cook-off. Invite the media and use social media to showcase your event.
- Advertising: Promote Canada's Agriculture Day on your website, blog or company newsletter. Visit the resources section of AgDay.ca for material to use in your marketing pieces.
- Merchandise: Everyone loves swag. Shop online for Canada's Agriculture Day or Ag More Than Ever merch for your event. Hurry, inventory's limited.
- Promote your event: Register your event at AgDay.ca. Show you're part of the celebration.

- Reuse existing content: You're already promoting agriculture and speaking positively about the industry. Just repurpose what you're doing to celebrate the day.
- Social media: Include hashtags like #CdnAgDay, #AgMoreThanEver, #CdnAg, #IWorkInAg and #FarmLife. To reach a non-ag audience, use #foodie, #food or #yummy.
